Not illustrated. 1858 Excerpt: . prayer of Dr. Watts, the Christian lyrist, the burthen of which is a supplication for light. Such was for some time the attitude and prayer of Mr. Newman. With him religion was eminently practical. He felt that he was responsible for his religious belief, and that the truths of religion affected him as no others could. He desired to know that he might obey. He sought to see clearly the true foundation that he might build upon it his immortal hopes. Conforming his life to the truth which he saw, and opening his heart to its beams, he grew in knowledge and in grace. In the end, faith triumphed, and doubt and darkness fled away. Allusion has already been made to the part which he took in the memorable Concert of Prayer in February, 1826, and to the impression his Christian fervor made upon others....

Reviews

This book is definitely not straightforward to get started on studying but extremely exciting to read. It is really simplistic but shocks in the 50 percent of the ebook. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
