Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Fumigation Scheduling The first suggested change in the method of obtaining dimensions was in 1894, in Bulletin No. 122, where the idea of first covering the tree with a tent and then measuring the distance over the top and that around near the bottom was suggested and an elaborate table was presented for obtaining the dosage from these measurements. This method was practically used by the writer in the field in 1902 in fumigating for the white ?y in the Mantee River section in Florida, where the distance over the tent was read from marks placed on the tent giving the distance down from the middle of the top in feet. A modification of this plan was illustrated in 1904, in Bulletin No. 152 (fig. Where the actual dosage was marked on the tent to avoid the inconvenience of calculation. In this same bulletin a rapid method of taking the measurement with lines was also presented (fig. 2) and a diagram furnished whereby the volume could be read at once from such measurements without calculation. No special efiort was made by the Station to secure the adoption of any of these methods, and it was not until the work was taken up by the United States Depart ment of Agriculture that finally a portion of the practical fumigators began to apply the method of measurement by marked tents.
